Jiangsu Normal University, founded in 1952, is located in Xuzhou, a city distinguished by its rich history and culture. It is a higher education institution jointly supported by the Jiangsu Provincial People's Government and the Ministry of Education, and serves as a regionally leading and exemplary university.

As one of the first universities in China authorized to admit international students, the University has established cooperative partnerships with 156 institutions in countries including the United Kingdom, the United States, Australia, and Russia, and has welcomed students from 76 countries and regions. It has been designated as an "Entrusted Training Institution for Chinese Government Scholarship Students" and recognized as a "Study in Jiangsu Target University." It has also been selected for the Ministry of Education's Exchange Program for Students and Faculty between Mainland China and Hong Kong/Macao.

The University initiated the establishment of the National China–Russia Cooperative Education Alliance and served as its founding chair institution. It also launched the Jiangsu–Russia University Cooperation Alliance and the China (Jiangsu)–Latin America University Alliance. In addition, it is a member of several international collaborative networks, including the Shanghai Cooperation Organization University, the Jiangsu–UK High-level University Alliance, the BRICS University League, and the China–Central and Eastern European Countries Higher Education Institutions Consortium.

Jiangsu Normal University established the world's first overseas Mencius Institute in Malaysia. It is home to the Belt and Road Research Institute (Center for Studies on CIS Countries), the Pakistan Research Center, the Australia Research Center, and the Research Base for China–Latin America Humanistic Exchange—three of which have been officially recognized by the Ministry of Education as National and Regional Studies Centers. The University has also set up six overseas branches of the Belt and Road Research Institute.

In collaboration with leading institutions such as Peter the Great St. Petersburg Polytechnic University, Claude Bernard University Lyon 1, and the University of Wisconsin–Madison, the University co-builds advanced research platforms. It also jointly operates the “China–Latin America Humanistic Exchange Research Base” with the Center for China and Foreign Humanities Exchange of the Ministry of Education, the Latin American Institute of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, and the Foreign Affairs Office of Jiangsu Provincial People’s Government.

Furthermore, Jiangsu Normal University conducts joint academic programs and credit-transfer collaborations with universities in countries including the United States, the United Kingdom, Japan, and Russia.
